ADMINISTRATION VIEWS

THE PRESIDENT AND CABINET TALK OVER THE RESULTS OF THE ELECTIONS—THE THIRD TERM IS SUE LAUGHED AT BY THE PRESIDENT AS A HUGE JOKE—HE TAKES COMFORT, HOWEVER, IN THE FACT THAT SOUTH CAROLINA REMAINS LOYAL TO THE PARTY.

[By Telegraph to the N Y Tribune]

WASHINGTON Nov 6—There were no matters of importance to receive the attention of the Cabinet at its meeting to-day and besides the most ordinary routine, nothing of a business nature occurred of sufficient interest to record After certain small matters relating to the departments had been disposed of the members of the Cabinet and the President turned naturally enough into the political stream, and the events of the last few days were discussed on all sides. Considering the terrible defeat and rout of the Administration at the Tuesday elections it must be acknowledged that the President and most of his Cabinet were in admirable temper, and the remarks were all in a good natured spirit None of the gentlemen present, not even the Attorney General, expressed the opinion that the country was in danger and the President himself rather treated the occurrences of Tuesday as a good joke He laughed at it as the best joke of the season. He thought no sensible man could imagine there was such an issue in the field. Still he could not fail to remember that the South Carolina Republican Convention had placed itself on record in favor of a third term, and he seemed to derive much comfort from the fact that South Carolina had gone so largely Republican He said it was the only oasis in the desert He regretted exceedingly the defeat of Ellis H Roberts in the Utica District, because he regarded him as a straightforward upright honest unprejudiced man, and he had shown himself a good legislator But the President seemed to take pleasure in remembering that Mr Roberts convention passed resolutions against the third term principle Whether Gen Grant is seeking a third term or not is a subject on which there is a division of opinion but it is very certain that he is proud of the fact that South Carolina was in favor of a third term and carried her ticket on that issue and that Mr Roberts, with a convention opposed to a third term was defeated The President during the conversation did not seem to regard the defeat of Butler as a great calamity to the party and treated a mention of the subject with great equanimity

There was a good deal of chaffing among the members of the Cabinet over the fact that Secretary Belknap of Iowa, was the only member from a Republican State Attorney General Williams thought that Oregon ought to be classed in the Republican list but there was so much doubt on the subject that he did not insist upon an equal partnership with Belknap

HOW THE NEWS WAS RECEIVED AT WASHINGTON

The following is the version given by a tele[illegible] correspondence to the Boston Herald of how the election news was received at Washington

The results of the elections have overshadowed all else of interest in the city to-day It is impossible to say which party is the most surprised though consternation is the word which pictures the faces of the Grant officials, who did not anticipate so [illegible] a tidal wave of defeat In New York, where they were not altogether hopeful of re-electing Dix for Governor they had no doubt of securing the Legislature and thereby a U S Senator The loss of a Republican Senator for six years they regard as far more serious than the loss of a Governor for two years In New Jersey the Administration men were even more confident Secretary Robeson, who was a Republican candidate for the Senate to succeed Stockton Democrat assured officials here that there was no doubt of a Republican Governor and Legislature and was only willing to concede a Democratic gain of Congressmen The result, however was overwhelmingly the other way But the Democratic triumph in Massachusetts and the opposition majority in the House of Representatives in the 44th Congress is the climax which staggers everybody here and produces a political excitement quite unparalleled since the time of Andy Johnson It affects the status at once of 150 officials who hold office under the House The President has taken the Republican defeat with great indifference. He expressed some surprise at the revolution in Massachusetts but otherwise so far as is known has said nothing To day he refused to see any one but Secretary Bristow, with whom he was closeted half an hour After that he was reported to be unwell Some of the heads of departments Secretary Bristow, for instance, were not visible during the day and heads of bureaus and other officials likewise got out of the way rather than be subjected to the jeers and jokes that greeted every Republican who was out

While looking up the press comments on the election, we glance at this from the Boston Transcript

In hardly a single aspect can the result be regarded as a victory of those heretofore constituting the long continued minority of the citizens We call it a triumph of the sound sense clear judgment the far reaching sagacity of the mass of voters and a verdict against official fanaticisms, duplicity, trickery and profligacy The success is largely owing to the independent Republicans It could not have been achieved without their votes

The great picture of "St Anthony tempted by Devils disguised as pretty Women" by Murillo has been stolen from the Cathedral of Seville —Madrid dispatch.

The action of Occident on the first heat depressed the spirits of his friends When Fullerton crossed under the wire Occident s saddle was abreast the distance flag but the Judges decided not to rule him out. Great dissatisfaction was expressed at the decision The friends of Fullerton and Purdy claim that Occident was four lengths back of the distance flag, when Fullerton crossed under the wire

VICE PRESIDENT WILSON ON THE ELECTIONS

[From the Boston Herald]

A Herald representative on Wednesday evening had an opportunity of exchanging a few words with the Vice President Mr Wilson appeared to be rather depressed but not disheartened by the loss which the Republicans have this year sustained While admitting that the record was an extremely unpleasant one for him to contemplate he said that the result was one not unforeseen or unpredicted As far back as last June the catastrophe was apparent and at that time in consultation with leading members of his organization he announced his belief that control of the new House of Representatives could only be retained by a small majority

The causes of this outbreak of popular dissatisfaction with the Republican party Mr Wilson thought were well understood—at least here in Massachusetts. Five years ago this Commonwealth held even more than her fair proportion of the great political positions of the country She had the Secretaryship of the Treasury and for a time the Attorney Generalship Her citizens filled the London and Berlin missions In the Senate was Charles Sumner, as Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations In the House Mr Hooper was on the Committee of Ways and Means and Mr Dawes was Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations,—a position as important as any in that body, if not more important than any other in his judgment, Mr Washburne was the Chairman of the Committee on Claims, and Gen Banks was at the head of the Committee on Foreign Affairs while Gen Butler presided over the Committee on Reconstruction That was the situation when the Republicans of Massachusetts were undivided Her situation was far different now, though Mr Dawes held the Chairmanship of the Committee on Ways and Means and Gen Butler was at the head of the Judiciary Committee The Vice President regarded this as fortunate and seemed to think that if prudent counsels had prevailed it might have been averted He thought there never was a party strong enough to look with satisfaction on dissension in its ranks He did not believe at all in the proscriptive policy Of all parties the Republicans was the last that could tolerate what was termed discipline After the issue of the Greeley campaign the true policy was to open the doors and endeavor to secure the return of Sumner, Schurz Banks and other Republicans who went into the Liberal Republican movement Other counsels prevailed, and what could have been effected was neglected. Another thing that weighted the Republicans heavily was the third term scheme That was something the country could not be brought to consent to and Republicans as he knew, had reasoned that they might as well kill the project now as two years hence At the present time the public mind was fixed on the advisability of having but two terms Another error was made by the office-holders in pressing so uniformly for perpetuating themselves in office and still another in making unfit nominations All of these had contributed to produce dissatisfaction Still Mr Wilson declared that even if his fears should be realized, he was disinclined to believe that the defeat was other than temporary and that it would not determine the issue of the next Presidential campaign He did not he said welcome disaster but if it came he could not but think its effect on the Republican party would be beneficial and that under the chastening they would rise to victory again

BUTLER WILL RETIRE FROM POLITICAL LIFE—New York Nov 11—A Boston special gives an interview with Gen Butler on his plans for the coming campaign He says he reserves the expression of his views on the political situation for the halls of Congress Vice President Wilson denies that he ever attributed to him (Butler) the defeat of the Republican party in Massachusetts Butler says he has no intention of entering the lists as Senatorial candidate or for the Governorship It is not true that he has been tendered a foreign mission neither is there any truth in the rumors that he intends to form a new political party in Massachusetts He intimated though not very positively that he intended to retire from political life at the close of this present term of Congress

A DOUBLE MURDER IN COLORADO—Denver Nov 11—About six weeks ago two men one named Slate, from Central the other Clayton from Golden started out on a prospecting trip up the Cache La Poud. Nothing had been heard from them since their departure and suspicions of foul play being excited a party of three started out last Saturday to search for them Yesterday their bodies were found on Coal creek 25 miles from Greeley riddled with bullets and partially covered with bruises They were probably murdered for their outfit as neither had anything else with them Three men who are suspected of being the murderers are being pursued and will undoubtedly be captured

The Courier says Scarcely a week passes that discoveries are not made of coal mines, gold and silver lodges etc, in the Puget Sound basin and the mountains adjacent Well-defined ledges of iron, lead, copper plumbago, silver and gold of greater or less degree of richness are known to exist in the Cascade Mountains Of all but gold and silver there is no question or doubt of their extent and value. The present delay in developing these natural resources lies in the difficulty of access which will be overcome in due time

The curious spectacle of cutting a dead man off from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was witnessed in West Jordan, Utah a few days since The names of several liberal Saints were brought up to be turned over to Satan and among them was that of a man who had been gathered to the other shore. The ungodly Bishop s attention was called to this fact when he gruffly said It don't make any difference, he was a bad man and must be cut off [illegible] or, alive from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints And off went the dead man s head

The Vancouver Register is still in doubt whether it is Mr B F Shaw or Mr S P McDonald who is elected Joint Councilman Mr Shaw s majority in Clarke county is 137 Skamania gave him a majority of 25 making a majority of 162 in the two counties We can only judge of the vote for Councilman by the vote for Delegate in the counties of Klickitat and Yakima, the former giving Jacobs 140 and the latter 200 majority Supposing Mr McDonald to have received only one half (170) of Jacobs majority in the two last named counties he would still be elected by a small majority

Quartz ledges of vast extent have been found in several portions of the Sound country easy of access which yield according to assays, all the way from $30 to $150 per ton Extensive discoveries have recently been made at the headwaters of the tributaries of the Snohomish and Skagit rivers and if the reported assays may be accepted as true which we have no reason to doubt they are exceedingly rich and if easy access being only about sixty miles distant from Seattle over a route where a trail can be cut with little difficulty That some of the e mines are not already actively worked seems a surprise when it is known how small a yield per ton will give a good profit

MONDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 23 1874

HAS THE PRESIDENT JURISDICTION?

The application of V V Smith to the President of the United States to be recognized as Governor of Arkansas, is an instance of a vicious and unauthorized practice that has grown up within the last two or three years in connection with the governments of the Southern States. The anomalous state of affairs in the South has seemed—only seemed—to call for the exercise of powers not vested in the National Executive by the Constitution, and such exercise has gone on without serious challenge. True, there have been vituperation and vehement denunciation enough but there has been so far as we have observed very little careful and well-considered discussion of the principles involved.

The President is not vested with the power to make or unmake Governors of States. The question of the regularity of elections is wholly outside his jurisdiction, and the idea that his recognition adds one iota to the legal strength of any man's title to a State office is utterly groundless. The President may, indeed, be placed in a situation which requires him to determine for himself whom he shall recognize as the Governor of a State for he is sometimes called upon to hold official communication with such Governors, and in order to do so he must determine whom he will recognize as Governor, in case more than one person claims the office. So he may be called upon to suppress an insurrection against the lawful authorities of a State, and in order to discharge this duty he must, in case both parties claim to be the legally constituted authorities decide which is the Government and which the insurrection. But his decision in such a case is not in any sense a judicial decision, and has no binding force beyond the immediate purposes for which it was made. Not only is it not binding upon other persons as a legal determination of the matter involved, but it is not binding upon the President himself. He acts upon it to-day because he needs must act in the premises, but he may see to-morrow that he had been [illegible], and may thereupon recall the recognition of to-day. Or the parties concerned may carry the case into the courts, notwithstanding the Executive recognition and, the courts deciding contrary to the President's decision, he is bound by their judgment the [illegible] citizen is bound. In short the President's recognition of a man as Governor is exactly like the recognition of the Governor of one State by the Governor of another State. If, when Governor Grover of Oregon sends a commissioner with a requisition to Governor Booth of California for the extradition of a fugitive from justice, Judge Tolman, claiming to be the Governor of Oregon, shall also send a commissioner, with a requisition for the same fugitive, it would devolve on Governor Booth to decide who was Governor of Oregon before he could decide which requisition he would honor. But the decision on the question of who is Governor, has no binding force in law, and Governor Booth himself is at liberty to recognize next week, on a similar application, the party whom he has in the first case refused to recognize.

The application of this principle to the applications of these Governors and would-be Governors of the South, would simplify their cases wonderfully, and would at the same time assist in reaching a decision that would accord with the Constitution and laws governing the relationship between State and Federal Governments. It would be found that there is no authority for the President's assuming jurisdiction to hear and determine a controversy as to the right to the office of Governor of any State South or North; that he cannot rightfully assume jurisdiction to decide the question except as a mere incident to some other question and that his decision of the point in such case, like the decision by a court of a collateral question, has not the force of a direct adjudication, and binds no one in the future. If these views are correct,—and we feel sure they are—all applications of [illegible] should be at once refused.

THE USELESSNESS OF PARTY ORGANS.

On last Friday we transcribed from the Boston Herald an admirable analysis of the duties of a journalist, showing how [illegible] independent paper to be reliable in matters of politics and that consequently the truly independent journal is the ideal of all true journalism. On the same subject, the San Francisco Call remarks:

> Every day demonstrates the uselessness of party organs. The class of minds which are open to conviction on political subjects pay little attention to what party organs say. They are regarded as hired advocates, whose professional duty it is to make the worse appear the better cause. A journal with any aspirations to prominence in the affairs of the nation cannot afford any other relation to party than that which [illegible] exists between two men of like positions in life. They may act together as long as they can agree in essential points, but when the time comes for one to yield his fixed opinion to the other, a proper sense of manliness [illegible].

There would be no need of so much as a statement of the truth so well spoken by the Call but for the prejudice that has been created against papers claiming to be independent, which were in fact nothing of the kind. The independent paper is a very different thing from the neutral paper whose greatest care is to avoid the expression of any opinion on questions that are open to controversy. It is exactly the opposite of that style of paper. And it is equally unlike the free lance newspapers that affect independence in order to be ready to advocate any side of any question for hire. The truly independent journal is guided by fixed principles, more than any other can be. With as strong political opinions and preferences as are consistent with [illegible] and just criticism the independent paper gives the preference to the party whose creed agrees most nearly with the views by which it is guided, but under no circumstances allows party [illegible] to dictate its course or to stifle its convictions. The party organ [illegible] with the position of a paid advocate but not with that of a conscientious journal.

DE MINIMIS

> The OREGONIAN thinks that inasmuch as Mr J N Dolph is understood to be interested in the Bulletin lawsuit against Watkinds and Watkinds threatened suit against the Bulletin might be made to cancel each other. We think that, as Mr Dolph has explained to the OREGONIAN that he has no interest in the Bulletin, that paper ought not to have coupled his name with the Bulletin the second time. It is a fact that he has no interest in this paper, vested or contingent.—Bulletin.

If it were a fact that Mr Dolph had "explained to the OREGONIAN that he has no interest in the Bulletin" we should not have "coupled his name with the Bulletin a second time," nor even a first time. The only time Mr Dolph ever mentioned the subject to the OREGONIAN directly or indirectly was some two or three weeks ago when in conversation with the editor of the OREGONIAN he said that he had become disgusted with the concern at some prior time and had sent in his resignation as an officer of the corporation by which the Bulletin is published. That is a very different thing from ceasing to have any interest in the Bulletin vested or contingent. We are far from convinced that these two actions for libel might not be set off the one against the other, but if the two individuals immediately concerned are bent on having a judicial assessment of the value of their respective characters we shall not offer any further objection. We trust we shall be pardoned, however for reminding them of the legal maxim de minimis non curat lex.

The praying crusade is organizing again in the East. It does not take so well this time though. In fact it appears hardly likely it will amount to anything. With a glance of mild curiosity business men pass on to their work instead of stopping and lingering around the scene as they did before the novelty wore off. The crusaders have themselves for audiences. This irrational method of waging war against the curse of drink will soon pass out of sight not to be recalled again except when memory reverts to it as one of the most unaccountable phases of a moral contest.

Four installments of Chinese youths have been sent to this country to be educated. The last lot consisting of thirty boys of ages ranging from 10 to 14 years arrived at Boston on the 4th instant, accompanied by their secretaries interpreters etc. They will be distributed around among the various institutions of learning in Massachusetts and Connecticut. They are reported by the Springfield Republican as bright looking lads.

The Bulletin says Scott has not been its editor for some months. It will hardly venture to say Scott has not written any of its editorials of late. We should venture to attempt to prove that while Gaston was showing Mr Peebles around the country, Scott either wrote the editorials of the Bulletin or breathed into somebody else the inspiration of his stupidity for no person living could be so stupid by his own unaided efforts.

John Bute Holmes is the name of a gay and festive surveyor in New York city who having a wife insidiously crept into the affections of a confiding infant of eleven years known to the local chronicler as "May Chamberlayne," daughter of a book canvasser, by representing himself to be a widower etc. The girl, now fifteen years of age, sues for damages for breach of promise.

Joseph Rosenstein a porter in the service of a wholesale house in New York city became enraged at his wife because his supper did not suit him, and threw her from the roof of a five-story tenement house to the ground. The unfortunate woman was instantly killed.

Dolph wants to have it understood that he has nothing to do with the Bulletin. Don't blame him. And the Bulletin wants to have it understood Scott has nothing to do with its columns. Don't blame it.

NORTH PACIFIC
MUTUAL LIFE ASSOCIATION.
Capital Stock, $100,000.
Organized Upon U. S. Gold Coin Basis.
Incorporated Portland, Oregon, 1874.

OFFICERS:

P WASSERMAN	President,
J QUACKENBUSH	Vice President,
D W WAKEFIELD	Secretary,
W S LADD	Treasurer,
W H EFFINGER	Attorney
M P MORSE	General Agent

DIRECTORS:
P WASSERMAN, F QUACKENBUSH
W WADHAMS, W S LADD,
D W WAKEFIELD, J L ATKINSON
I WHITE, W H EFFINGER
M P MORSE.

THIS ASSOCIATION WAS INCORPORATED AT Portland, Oregon October 29th 1874 with a Capital Stock of $100 000 on a United States gold coin basis and under the laws of the State of Oregon for the purpose of issuing Life, Endowment and Annuity Policies, on such terms and at such rates as will be within the means of every citizen and retain at home the large sums annually sent East for Life Insurance which can be as safely and to the public more advantageously invested in building up our home interests.

Mutual Life Insurance in its truth is simply the agreement of any number of persons that upon the death of any one of them those left living shall each contribute a certain agreed sum which in its total of aggregate shall be given to the family—wife or child relative or estate—as stipulated by the deceased. But such persons so agreeing (if any considerable number) require the services of a responsible agency for the collection and disbursement of such moneys and it is for such purpose that this Association has been organized and duly incorporated under the laws of the State.

The safe and honorable management of the affairs of the Association is guaranteed by its incorporators whose names are a warranty to the public for safe custody of their trust fund.

Life Policies.

In issuing these the design of the Association is as agents of the people to provide them with the advantages of a Mutual Life or Mutual Contribution system of Life Insurance at actual cost without unnecessary and in some cases unbearably heavy expense to which the public have heretofore been compelled to submit.

The originators of the beneficent plan of Mutual Life Insurance never designed that the participants should pay four times its actual cost nor indeed any cost until the anticipated death had actually occurred. Common sense tells us that paying a debt when it is due is sufficient in all business transactions.

Endowments.

Payable in five ten fifteen and twenty years, will be issued by the Association in its corporate capacity giving its pledge for their true payment, as stated over the signatures of their President and Secretary. That better interest on money and better results to the holders of such endowments can be obtained here than in the Eastern States or in Europe is evident when we consider the difference between the well known three to five and six to seven per cent. realized in the East against the ten and twelve per cent. interest that can be safely obtained on the Pacific Coast.

Annuities.

The Association issue Life Annuities for the payment each year of agreed or specified sums in gold coin to the holders of such Policies, these will be issued over the signatures of the President and Secretary. The same reasons which enable the Association to issue endowments or agreements to pay a specified sum at the end of a stated term of years and to give such endowments on better terms than can be done by any Eastern Life Insurance Company also apply in case of Annuities or a stated sum annually to be given by the Association.

[illegible] C. Kinney, of [illegible], had a very narrow escape on Saturday from being killed or fatally injured. He was out calling on a friend at the corner of Thirteenth and I streets. When he had concluded his visit, Mr. Kinney stepped into the hack which conveyed him out to the place. The driver closed the door of the vehicle and [illegible] to climb to the seat. In doing this his foot, which he had placed on one of the hubs, slipped, causing him to fall to the ground. One of the lines dropped out of his hand at the same instant. The team started slowly ahead, and the driver, fearing the consequences, sprang up on the tongue to catch the line. He failed to grasp the line, and slipping again, frightened the horses. The driver held on manfully, but the team kept accelerating their speed until he was compelled at last to let go. From I street the horses ran down to G and down that to Fourth, up street to College, up College to Sixth, down Sixth to Jefferson, down Jefferson to First, down First to Vine, down Vine to Front, up Front to Morrison, and up that street to one of the stables. "Uncle Bob" Kinney was not able to get out of the hack until the team reached College street. In passing up the grade along Fourth street the team ran very slowly, but Mr. Kinney is so corpulent and unwieldy that he was fearful about jumping out. Just as the team had slackened their speed and was turning the corner of College street, he opened the door and jumped out. He came off with flying colors, for he only sprained one ankle slightly. Strange to say the hack was not damaged a dollar, although a dozen corners were turned, and twice that number of carriages, and loaded wagons were met and [illegible]. It was certainly a very narrow escape, and that hack ride will be long remembered by "Uncle Bob" with anything but emotions of pleasure.

Inebriated Female.—Last evening about 9 o'clock a female, calling herself Mrs. Smolden, who lives in the vicinity of the car shops, was arrested by the police in a state of maudlin inebriety and taken to the city jail. This forlorn creature was discovered sitting under the edge of the sidewalk near the foot of Stark street. When found she was shouting, [illegible] and talking incoherently. The saddest [illegible] of the case is that she had in her arms an infant (she claimed to be, and doubtless was, its mother), not more than five or six months old. Mother and child were both wet to the skin, having been exposed for several [illegible] to a drenching rain. On [illegible] the jail the miserable unnatural mother was locked in a dark cell, and the [illegible] pretty, bright looking little fellow, [illegible] perfectly comfortable. The woman [illegible] and shouted and [illegible] in piteous accents to have her child restored to her; but it was [illegible] to allow her to have it until she became sober. A sad, sad spectacle it is [illegible] to see a woman sunken to such a degraded state of degradation. She will be [illegible] to-day. An inebriate asylum should close its charitable doors on such unfortunate beings.

"Battle of Gettysburg."—[illegible] will be the subject of the lecture to be delivered at Museum Hall to-morrow evening by General O. O. Howard. In this great battle 200,000 troops were engaged, and over 40,000 lives were lost. General Howard bore an important part in this battle, and received therefor the thanks of Congress. He will treat this subject—the facts to him are painfully familiar—as a citizen and soldier, giving a technical description, accompanied with many interesting incidents. Gen. Howard is a pleasant, scholarly speaker, and his lecture promises to be replete with all that can instruct and entertain.

Eastern Oregon.—H. H. Gilfrey, Esq., who returned from east of the mountains a few days since, reports that the weather is of a wintry order in the counties east of the Cascade Mountains. When he left Umatilla three and a half feet of snow was reported on the [illegible] the Blue Mountains, and still falling, and from ten inches to one foot on the [illegible] road. The people are generally jubilant at the prospect now presented of a heavy [illegible] in the [illegible] to them the many benefits that arise from a prosperous season in the mines next year.

Fighting.—Yesterday afternoon two men [illegible] arrested in a saloon in the lower portion of the city for fighting. High words were indulged in, when one of the parties struck the other [illegible] with a chair. The man who was struck [illegible] the other party, and proceeded to [illegible] severely. Officer Kelly hearing the row ran in and took both parties into custody and [illegible] them in jail. Both were considerably under the influence of liquor, and it is difficult to predict what the row might have resulted in, had not the officer put in a timely appearance.

Jury Summoned.—A few days since a venire for a jury was ordered in the U. S. District Court, for the trial of several cases pending. The U. S. Marshal has complied with the order and summoned the required number of persons. The returns having been made, the names of the jurors will be called this morning. To-morrow morning the U. S. District Court will convene at the usual hour.

Seriously Ill.—It is with feeling of profound regret that we announce the serious illness of ex-Gov. Abernethy. This most estimable Christian gentleman has been confined to his room for some time with a severe attack of rheumatism of the heart. The entire community will rejoice to hear of Mr. Abernethy's speedy restoration to perfect health.

[illegible] Fair.—The lady members of St. David's Chapel, East Portland, have been as [illegible] the last month or two, making up various fancy articles and perfecting other arrangements looking [illegible] holding of a grand fancy fair, which is to be held within the next three or four weeks.

[illegible]—At their rooms to-night at 7:30 o'clock will be held a meeting of the Y. M. C. A., at which will be submitted [illegible] the amendments to the [illegible] [illegible] having at heart the welfare of the young men of Portland, need not be urged to a prompt attendance.

Upper Adjournment.—The case of State vs M. Mann, charged with perjury, came up for examination before Judge Denny on Saturday. After hearing all the evidence in the case, the Court took the matter under advisement until this morning.

First Lecture.—Rev. Louis Verlaag will deliver at Museum Hall this evening the first lecture of a course to be given under the auspices of the Catholic Social Union. His subject will be, "Influence of Orders Upon Society."

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Rain again.

River is again rapidly rising.

No new vessels have arrived here since Friday.

There will be 16 cases to dispose of in the Police Court this morning.

This morning, the Sheriff will start on his regular rounds for the collection of taxes.

After a long, lingering illness, Mr. T. L. Hauck, the well know phographer, died at his home yesterday in this city.

An exchange puts it thus: "If the times are hard, stop your paper, but do not shorten your allowance for whisky or tobacco. A good paper in a family is a great comfort to the wife and children, but that is no reason why you should provide them a weekly luxury at the expense of a daily necessity."

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Emmet Guard ball, on Thanksgiving Eve, promises to be largely attended.

The Grand Army of the Republic give a social party at their hall on Wednesday evening.

The Progress Club will give five soirees during the winter, which are to be of a private character, only a limited number of invitations being issued.

The Egyptian Mummy in the Museum may be 4,000 years old. It has been a long night since some hand, now mouldered, wrapped this body in ointments and placed it in a niche in one of Egypt's receptacles for the dead.

[illegible]—[illegible] & Schwendell's soiree given on Saturday evening at their Dancing Academy was well attended, notwithstanding the disagreeable character of the weather. Excellent music was furnished, and the tripping of merry feet continued until near midnight.

Skating Rink.—This popular place of amusement has been well patronized during the past week. On Saturday afternoon there was an unusually large attendance of ladies and children. In the evening several hundred persons were present, including a large number who were participants in the healthful exercise of roller-skating. Mr. Morrice, the enterprising lessee, is unsparing in his efforts to render this place of amusement popular and worthy of support. How well he has been patronized thus far indicates the measure of success which has attended his efforts. Every day, and three nights during the week, the Rink will be thrown open to the public. To-morrow evening there is to be a tournament, and a handsome prize awarded the successful contestant. During the skating season there will be given a number of promenade concerts, due notice of which will be announced hereafter.

Oro Fino Theater.—Considering the inclemency of the weather on Saturday there was a very flattering attendance at the matinee. Charles Selby's beautiful romantic drama of "Marble Heart" was repeated. A more poetic and classical drama than this creation is seldom put on any stage. "Marble Heart" has frequently been produced here, but certainly never with better stage effect, and in more exquisite dramatic taste. As the dreamy sentimental boy-sculptor, "Phidias," in the first part, and the infatuated "Raphael Duchalett," of the fourth act, Mr. Sawtelle fairly outdid all former efforts. His impersonation of the discarded lover, driven to the verge of desperation by a fierce passion, unrequited, the pangs of which consumed him and only ceased with death of a broken heart, was very strong, and could not fail to touch the feelings of the most callous. "Marco," the imperious, heartless beauty, the acme of whose selfish ambition was gold, clutched at the sacrifice of all that was noble and lovely in womanhood, was personated admirably by Mrs. Phelps. She played the part of the unfeeling coquette so well as render the character thoroughly detestable before the close of the drama. Of the other characters in the cast, we can speak in complimentary terms. In the evening Tom Taylor's powerful drama in five acts of the "Ticket of Leave Man," was produced. "Bob Brierly," the Lancashire Lad, was presented by Mr. Sawtelle in a manner which would be creditable to W. J. Florence, the man for whom the character was expressly written, and to whom Mr. Taylor dedicated the play. "May Edwards," the Lancashire lass, and subsequently the devoted wife, and heroine of the drama, was faithfully and carefully personated by Mrs. Phelps. Jas. Barrows, as "Tiger," the double dyed villain, played with his usual precision and care. Crowell, as "Melter Moss," made a capital old scoundrel, and like his right hand bower, "Tiger," made himself thoroughly detested. "Hawkshaw," the lightning detective, was personated by Mr. Gunning who succeeded well in that difficult role. Mr. Kelley's rendition of the character of "Gibson," the broker, was a neat, smooth piece of acting, and indicated careful study. Miss Brady as "Sam Willoughby," that naughty, mischievous boy, made a "palpable hit," and appeared to capital advantage. One of the best rendered characters of this drama was that of the garrulous, impulsive, but really kind-hearted "Widow Willoughby." Miss Morgan assumed the character, and by her fearful ear-torturing volubility brought down the house frequently. The play was put on the boards in capital style, and we regret that it is not to be repeated. This evening will be produced, for the first time in Portland, the great sensation play of "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl, or Death at the Wheel." When first produced East this play created an intense intense furore and had an unprecedented run. To-morrow evening the great French drama of "L' Article 47."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The entertainment given last Friday evening by the ladies of the Relief Society proved a most enjoyable affair, and a grand success financially, the net proceeds amounting to $773. The ladies would take this opportunity to thank most heartily the members of the Progress Club for the use of their beautiful rooms, as well as for the [illegible] services rendered them by several of the gentlemen, Messrs. Fleischner, Blum and DuBois.

To the following musicians are they also greatly indebted for delightful music: The Amphion Quartette Club, to Mrs. Sanders, Messrs. Lancaster and Schuyler, Mr. Upsher, Dr. Hatch and Mr. Thielsen. To Mr. Green for the donation of gas for the evening, and to the Steward, Mr. Davis, who was ever ready to lend a helping hand. These many acts of courtesy have given fresh zeal and courage to the workers in this good cause, and been warmly appreciated by every member of the Society.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The Oregon Furniture Manufacturing Co. are making a specialty of counting house desks. Call and see them.

Mr. Chas. A. Malarkey, the poultry dealer, has a card in this morning to which we call special attention. Thanksgiving and Christmas is coming on and now is the time to buy your turkeys, geese and chickens.

Those enterprising young confectioners, Schmeer Bros., announce the opening of the holiday stock of French and American candies, toys, etc. They have a complete stock, and offer inducements to country dealers as well as city consumers. Note the ad. on second page.

Mrs. Ach, who has been so long located at 95 First street, in her advertisement speaks in plain terms to the ladies, and more particularly to any enterprising person wishing to engage in the dry goods business. Such inducements are seldom offered. The chance to buy cheap is open for a limited period. Read the card for full information.

Pause while you read this! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us. Every young man, old man and boy, for that matter, likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties, the theater, or walking about the streets. They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain. What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman, or boy, than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either, when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line. Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the demands of trade. They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

The great Frenchman, Altaroche, made specialties of irony and sarcasm in all his writings, but JOHN O'NEIL & CO. make [illegible] of selling the finest clothing, underwear, cravats, ties and hats at [illegible] prices. For a winter suit theirs are of the best, so get yourself dressed and be [illegible] This is not irony but [illegible] fact, as everybody will find who goes to their store. Naked truth is good, but people can't go about in dat[illegible] and [illegible] clothing, and the supplies received by this firm are just what are wanted for the season.

Fashionable Outfits.—Attention is again called to the extraordinary opportunities which are just now being afforded by the extensive clothing house of JOS. KOHN, opposite National Bank. There is no place in the State where a larger or finer assortment both for gentlemen, boys and children will be found. At all times the prices have been the lowest known to the market, but at the present time it will be found that they have been greatly reduced. Mr. Kohn keeps constantly on hand a large and superior stock of furnishing goods and underwear.

TO THE LADIES OF PORTLAND.

MRS. W. N. WALLACE has established a first class Dress[illegible] Establishment in one of the new and [illegible] Rooms on Stark Street, between First and Second, at which place she would respectfully solicit your patronage.

So Insidious are the First A[illegible] of Consumption that thousands remain unconscious of its pr[illegible] until it has brought t[illegible] to the verge of the grave. An immediate resort to [illegible] D. Jayne's Expectorant, upon the first appearance of Cough, Pain or Soreness of the Throat or C[illegible] would very generally preclude a fatal result. [illegible] the symptoms indicate the pr[illegible] Consumption, would tend to [illegible] the d[illegible] and thus materially [illegible] the life of the patient. Use the E[illegible] therefore when you take a Cold and by [illegible] prevent the necessity for its use [illegible] complaints.

Phleb[illegible]

When Dr. Sangrado found his [illegible] he gave them water gruel. When they got weaker he bled them and dosed them with calomel and jalap. Gil Blas tells us they almost invariably died. A good many people are killed that way yet. The world in general, however, has found out that, in cases of debility and premature decay, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the true life sustaining cordial. This tonic is a powerful and perfectly harmless restorative. But it does more than invigorate. It regulates and purifies. While it builds up the strength and infuses vitality into the blood, it brings all the secretions into harmony with the laws of health. The feebler sex find it invaluable in the various physical difficulties to which their organization renders them subject. In all hysterical and hypochondrical cases its effect is magical. By it the strength is increased, the appetite preserved, and firmness and elasticity given to the system.

Honesty is the best policy in medicine as well as in other things. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a genuine preparation of that unequalled spring medicine and blood purifier, decidedly superior to the poor imitations heretofore in the market. Trial proves it.

THE BRYANT ROBBERY.

EXTRAORDINARY DETECTIVE WORK—ARREST OF THE MEN WHO ROBBED THE MISER—DISCOVERIES MADE BY THE POLICE—HISTORY OF THE ROBBERY.

From the N Y Times Nov 3

The somewhat waning reputation of the detective office in this city has been revived by a most clever arrest effected by detectives Reilly and Williamson of Central Office—an arrest which has been accomplished by more really clever detective work than any which have occurred during the past two years. Scarcely four weeks have elapsed since the robbery of Luther C Bryant becoming known astonished the city not only from the daring of its execution and its magnitude but the peculiar and wholly unequaled circumstances connected with it. A full history of the affair was published in the Times a few days after. The robbery was effected on the night of the 11th of October.

For several years past Luther Bryant, a man seventy three years of age has lived alone in a room in the rear of the third floor of the large tenement house No 1 Forsyth street. Bryant was reputed to be a miser possessing great wealth which he was too miserly to enjoy in a natural manner. No friend or relative ever visited him and he kept no domestic, buying his provisions, cooking his meals, and keeping his apartment clean himself. For four years past Bryant kept a stand against the iron railing of the old North Dutch Church at the corner of Fulton and William streets for the ostensible purpose of dealing in old coins, mutilated currency &c but his chief business was found by the Police to be the purchase of postage stamps pilfered by messenger boys from their employers. Bryant was in the habit of leaving his room every week day and morning and not returning until evening. During his absence the door of his room was secured by two ordinary locks and a patent padlock. The care which he exercised in securing these fastenings led the tenants in the house to believe that the room contained great wealth. But there came a day when he did not return at nightfall, owing to the fact that he had fallen into the hands of the Police and was locked up for receiving stolen goods. His arrest was effected under the following circumstances. A number of down town firms had been for months past using a great many more [illegible] stamps than was thought necessary for their correspondence and employed private detectives to ascertain what became of them. It was discovered that these firms were being systematically robbed by their messenger boys who stole the postage stamps from the book keepers' [illegible]. It was then thought prudent to watch some of these boys for the purpose of learning to whom they sold the stolen stamps. This led to the discovery of Bryant's nefarious business. The boys were in the habit of going to his stand with the stamps and dropping them into a carpet-bag which was underneath the stand after which Bryant would hand them the money. For three cent stamps Bryant paid them two cents, for two-cent stamps, one cent and for one cent stamps at the rate of half a cent each and for stamps of larger denominations at the same rates. For over [illegible] this nefarious traffic has been going on, as many as forty to fifty boys calling on Bryant every day until the latter had accumulated a large fortune. On the afternoon of the 11th of October Bryant was arrested by Officer Peters, of the South Precinct charged with receiving stolen goods. The complainant was Mr William K Evans book keeper for Faber & Co., of No. 133 William street, who based his charge [illegible] Charles Kreppe, [illegible] Rivington street, a messenger boy in the employ of the firm above named who stated that he sold to Bryant [illegible] of postage stamps which he had stolen from his employers. Bryant was taken before Justice Bixby, at the Tombs Police Court, and committed for trial in default of bail. He was locked up in the Tombs but an application for a warrant to search his room was refused by the Magistrate. [illegible] until three weeks ago yesterday when one of tenants in the house noticed that the patent padlock on the outside of the door had been broken off, and the door was slightly ajar. [illegible] he thought it singular that the door should be open and at once informed Capt Ward of the Tenth Precinct Police. Detectives Lyon and [illegible] went to the house to investigate the matter. On entering the room the detectives at once saw that the place had been visited and thoroughly ransacked by burglars. The padlock had been broken off and the door [illegible] open. [illegible] could be obtained in reference to what had been stolen until the occupant of the room was consulted. Learning that he was confined in the Tombs, officer Dyer proceeded to the City Prison and informed Bryant of what had occurred. On receiving this intelligence Bryant almost fainted and on fully comprehending the [illegible] acted like a lunatic. He told the officer that the room contained money and valuables to the amount of over $100,000, and that he was reduced to beggary by the robbery. Superintendent Walling was notified and at his request District Attorney Phelps discharged Bryant from prison on his own recognizance, so as to enable him to consult with and aid the Police authorities in their search for the stolen property. Bryant visited his room, and after carefully inspecting the premises furnished Superintendent Walling with the following list of money and property claimed by him to have been stolen: $7,000 in United States gold coin in $20 gold pieces, each piece has a small hole punched in the head of the Goddess of Liberty, $12,000 in legal tender notes $1,000 in mutilated currency $[illegible] in new fifty-cent and ten cent currency a gold watch, the movement of which was manufactured by Appleton & [illegible] [illegible] M. B., in old English characters, and valued at $300 the case weighs seventy-three pennyweights, and is marked No. 803, a gold chain composed of solid oblong bars, partly engraved, and weighing 100 pennyweights, a diamond and amethyst ring, a pair of amethyst sleeve-buttons marked M D, a pair of gold eye-glasses, twelve silver table spoons twelve silver teaspoons, a set of [illegible], salt, and sugar spoons all marked M D a quantity of clothing and a pearl album handsomely engraved. Besides this property there were stolen two [illegible] and [illegible] umbrellas [illegible]. At first some doubt was entertained by the Police as to whether Bryant had really been robbed of such valuable property. It was soon proved beyond a possibility of a doubt that Bryant had been robbed of the amount he stated, and a lady of undoubted character and standing in society informed Superintendent Walling that as far back as 1860 she knew Mr. Bryant to be in possession of $60,000 in $20 gold pieces. A reward of $5 000 was at once offered and circulars describing the stolen property were sent all over the country. So much for the history of the crime. Among the detectives who were detailed to investigate the case were Detectives Reilly and Williamson, of Central Office. For over a week they worked on the case without the slightest success. At length Detective Reilly in searching the Eighth Ward for some trace of the criminals had his attention drawn to the conduct of one Robert Walsh. This man is one of the oldest thieves in New York. About twenty years ago he was arrested in Broadway with William J Sharkey, the escaped murderer and served a term on the island for larceny. He generally gives his name as Robert Murray but is known among thieves as Robbs the Welshman. Of late years he has been distinguished as a burglar and about four years ago was arrested in the St Bernard Hotel corner of Prince and Mercer streets for burglary in Washington square tried convicted, and sentenced to State Prison from which penal institution he was discharged about four months ago. The detectives knew that Walsh on his release from State Prison was utterly penniless and broken down. They were therefore astonished to see him spending money freely and well dressed. A watch was at once placed on his movements and Detective Reilly traced him to his residence No 62 Stanton street, where he was living with a concert-saloon girl, who passed as Mrs Annie Murray. The detective eagerly watched every movement of Walsh and the woman and quickly noted that the latter had purchased several valuable silk dresses, and jewelry to a considerable amount. They then proceeded to look after Walsh's associates, and soon found that his most intimate companion was George, alias Rat, Reilly, a noted and desperate thief and ruffian who made his head quarters in the Eighteenth Precinct and who resided at No 252 West Eighteenth street. Reilly has on many occasions been arrested for robbery and felonious assault and became especially known to the Police through stabbing Officer McKenzie of the Eighteenth Precinct. The detectives called to their aid in the case and a couple of trustworthy men were employed to frequent the various drinking saloons which Walsh and Reilly visited. Among these were a beer saloon kept by a man known as Frank at the corner of Houston and Mercer streets another saloon in Bleecker near Wooster, and one at the corner of South Fifth avenue and Amity streets. Every action of the suspected men was remarked, and every utterance of theirs reported to the detectives, who were thus enabled to gain a full knowledge of the case without being themselves observed. At length one evening, about a week ago Walsh while in Frank's saloon, was addressed by a number of thieves, who asked him where he [illegible] good clothes. He answered "Oh this is all right. There's $70 000 behind this." The detectives then felt confident they had their man, and determined to take immediate action. They resolved to arrest the men separately and secretly so that no communication could take place between them. On Friday last Detective Reilly secured a position in the window of a beer saloon at the corner of Eldridge and Stanton street and kept close watch on Walsh's house. About 3 o'clock Walsh came out. The detective allowed him to proceed as far as the Bowery and then arrested him. On the following day Detective Williamson arrested Reilly. The detectives then proceeded to search the residences of the prisoners. In Walsh's house they found a pearl handled umbrella hanging on a clothes hook concealed by a dress. They also found in a little box on the mantel shelf a pawn ticket for a pistol pledged with E Carroll pawn broker of South Fifth avenue for $5. The officers at once redeemed the revolver and found it to be Mr Bryant's. Mr Bryant also identified the pearl-handled umbrella as part of the property stolen from his residence. On Saturday the officers arrested Reilly, and on searching his residence found the ivory handled umbrella and a quantity of postage stamps which were identified by Mr Bryant as his property. Walsh and Reilly were arraigned before Justice Kasmire at the Tombs yesterday and held for examination all bail being refused. Superintendent Walling has evinced a great interest in the case and has personally directed the movements of the detectives. Further arrests are expected.

The detectives say that the prospect of recovering most of the gold swag taken by the thieves is good.

Latest Liverpool advices denote a quiet market. Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d@10s 4d for average, and 10s 4d @10s 10d for club per cental. The London market is quoted at 44s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and 49s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown.

The condition of our financial and mercantile interests are not changed in important particulars since our last review. The grain movement slacked just a little on Thursday and Friday the impression [illegible] to have gone abroad that prices were better, but in what it had its foundation we cannot determine as private advices from England still denote a very dull market there with no advance in offers and no activity in trade in fact some very large dealers are reported by mail from Liverpool to be gradually drawing out of the market. Our home trade is just about as active to day however as it has been at any previous time this season. The apparent anxiety which shippers entertained about a predicted freeze up is now over for the time and every appearance of the weather at this writing indicates heavy and continued rains so that one incentive to buyers to urge the market is removed as there is no immediate prospect of their vessels being detained by ice. This weather also improves navigation on the upper river to Eugene and points this side, so that the scope of grain land now accessible to transportation lines embraces the principal part of the State and offers of wheat are likely to become more frequent. In the meantime we see no reason to believe that any further decline will take place. At the present price a good many farmers are selling at a much lower figure, we think none would but those who are compelled by financial stress. Those who are prepared to hold their wheat will be apt to do so should offers fall below $1 [illegible] as farmers inform us that they cannot produce it at less and pay themselves for their expenses and labor. It cannot be claimed that merchants and wheat buyers here are not paying enough as any one who desires can calculate for himself the margin on a bushel or a cargo under present Liverpool prices and freights and we are led to believe in the truth of the remark made to us by a merchant a few days ago. There is no money in wheat this year for any body.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues.—Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years by a long continued series of marvellous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs Colds Consumption than can be made by medical skill. Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

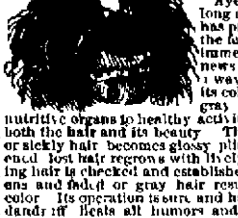
Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR



Advancing years sickness care disappointment and hereditary predisposition all turn the hair gray and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor by long and extensive use has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately often renews the growth and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy weak or sickly hair becomes glossy pliable and strengthened lost hair regrows with lively expression falling hair is checked and established thin hair thickens and faded or gray hair resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff heals all humors and keeps the scalp cool clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies hair the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.
